Jobs & Public Education Not Hate! Protesters from Wisconsin And Beyond Will Oppose Donald Trump in Green Bay April 27, 2019

In the week leading up to a scheduled appearance by Donald Trump, working people from across the region have mobilized to protest at the Resch Center (1901 S Oneida Street, Green Bay) where the anti-worker racist plans to speak. Protesters will be on site by 3 P.M. Saturday, April 27, 2019.

"We don't want hate in the Dairy State. Our group fights for all the oppressed workers of Wisconsin and around the nation and that's what we're going to do April 27," said Jennifer Estrada, founder of Crusaders of Justicia. Estrada will be traveling to Green Bay with a group from Manitowoc.

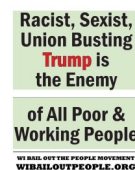

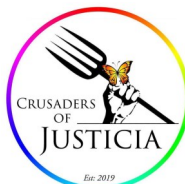

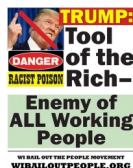

The protest event page for April 27 has been shared heavily by a broad cross section of labor, community, student and faith-based groups in multiple cities across Wisconsin.

"We at Crusaders of Justicia believe in justice and dignity for all poor and working people. We are here to show that exploited people can and will stop any hateful agenda. We're demanding justice and money for people's needs not hate," said Ron Kossik of Crusaders of Justicia.

"Trump's anti-worker racist Wall Street program is a continuation of the vicious austerity poor and working people have suffered from in Wisconsin and worldwide. Instead of attacking People's Venezuela and shredding social safety nets, we demand that the U.S. government stop bailing out banks and the Pentagon and provide immediate relief to poor and working people," said Bryan G Pfeifer of the Wisconsin Bail Out The People Movement.

Protesters will also be defending their first amendment rights. Permits are not required to protest in the Village of Ashwaubenon. More information on the legal right to protest: www.nlg.org. NLG Madison, WI: 608-520-0654. NLG Chicago: Chicago, IL: 312-913-0039
